

Bernie backs Monroe Gas-Magnum TDT

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

August 3 2005

Since fitting Monroe Gas-Magnum TDT shock absorbers in March this year, NSW Carline dealer Bernie Roberts can't believe the difference.

A Monroe salesman for 22 years and experienced four wheel drive and car enthusiast, Bernie knows a thing or two about the workings of a vehicle.

But it wasn't until he fitted Monroe Gas-Magnum TDT to his own vehicle that he experienced true surprise in the ability and performance of a product.

After doing 30,000kms on the original shocks of his 2003 Nissan Navara, Bernie said he needed replacement shock absorbers that offered better stability and improved responsiveness.

"I do a combination of extensive on and off-road driving and my current shock absorbers just weren't up to scratch," he said.

After fitting a pair of Gas-Magnum TDTs, Bernie said the change had a dramatic impact on the performance of the vehicle.

"Now, the vehicle doesn't lose traction and it demonstrates much better road holding ability in wet weather conditions," said Bernie.

"The ride is firmer, yet still comfortable, and the body roll of the car has been significantly reduced.

"I live 30kms north of Newcastle and I drive on dirt and bad country with undulations, so I need shock absorbers that can effectively handle both freeway driving and country roads.

"With Gas-Magnum TDT I have full confidence in the vehicle's ability to perform both on and off road. I've even tested them in sand and the traction is impressive on the slow undulations. I'm thrilled to have found a product that performs so well – it's superb."

And it's not just Bernie who's over the moon....

"Every customer I've sold the Gas-Magnum TDT to has come back to see me and complimented me on selling them these shock absorbers," he said.
